TRYING TO PLEASE EVERYBODY.

HINTS TO EDITORS.

One reader cries, your strain's too grave,
Too much morality you have,
Too much about religion;
Give me some witch and wizard tales,
Of slip-shod ghosts with fins and scales,
And feathers like a pigeon.

I like to read, another cries,
Those monstrous, fashionable lies—
In other words, those novels.
Composed of kings, and priests, and lords
Of border wars, and Gothic hordes,
That used to live in hovels.

No, no, cries one, we've had enough
Of such confounded love-sick stuff
To craze the fair creation:
Give us some recent foreign news
Of Russians, Turks, the Poles or Jews,
Or any other nation.

The men of dull scholastic lore,
Would like to see a little more
Of first rate scraps of Latin;
They fain would learn the price
Of tea and sugar, fruit and rice;
The draper, silk and satin.

Another cries, we want more fun,
A witty anecdote or a pun,
A rebus or a riddle;
Some wish for legislative news,
And some, perhaps of wiser views,
Would rather hear the fiddle.

The critic, too, of classic skill,
Must dip in gall his gander-quill,
And scrawls against the paper;
Of all the literary fools,
Bred in our colleges and schools,
He cuts the greatest caper.

Another cries, I want to see
A jumbled up variety—
Variety in all things:
A miscellaneous hodge-podge print.
Composed (I only give the hint)
Of multifarious small things.

I want some marriage news, says Miss,
It constitutes my highest bliss
To hear of weddings plenty;
For, in a time of general rain,
None suffer from a drought, 'tis plain,
At least, not one in twenty.

I want to hear of deaths, says one,
Of people totally undone
By losses, fire or fever;
Another answers full as wise,
I'd rather have the fall and rise
Of raccoon skins and beaver.

Some signify a secret wish
For new and choice, a favorite dish
Of politics to suit them:
But here we're at perfect ease,
For, should they swear the moon was cheese
We never should refute them.

Of grave or humorous, wild or tame,
Lofty or low, 'tis all the same,
To haughty or to humble,
So, brother editors, peruse
The garb that seems the best to you,
And let the grumblers grumble.

THE BYRON SENSATION.

The First Chapter of Mrs Stowe's New Book—Why the Former Disclosures were made—What Mrs. Stowe Says of Her Critics.

The following is the first chapter of Mrs. Stowe's book on the Byron question which has just been published:

The interval since my publication of "The True Story of Lady Byron's Life" has been one of stormy discussion and much invective.

I have not thought it necessary to disturb my spirit and confuse my sense of right by even an attempt at reading the many abusive articles that both here and in England have followed that disclosure. Friends have undertaken the task for me, giving me from time to time the substance of anything really worthy of attention which came to view in the tumult.

It appeared to me essential that this first excitement should in a measure spend itself before there would be a possibility of speaking to any purpose. Now, when all would seem to have spoken who can speak, and, it is hoped, have said the utmost they can say, there seems a propriety in listening calmly, if that be possible, to what I have to say in reply.

And first, why have I made this disclosure at all?

To this I answer briefly, because I considered it my duty to do so.

I made it in defence of a beloved, revered friend, whose memory stands forth in the eyes of the civilized world charged with most repulsive crimes, of which I certainly knew her innocent.

I claim, and shall prove, that Lady Byron's reputation has been the victim of a concerted attack, begun by her husband during her lifetime, and coming to a climax over her grave. I claim, and shall prove, that it was not I who stirred up this controversy in the year 1869. I shall show who did it, and who is responsible for bringing on me that hard duty of making these disclosures, which, it appears to me, ought to have been made by others.

I claim that these facts were given to me unguarded by any promise or seal of secresy, expressed or implied; that they were lodged with me as one sister rests her story with another for sympathy, for counsel, for defense Never did I suppose the day would come that I should be obliged to so cruel an anguish as this use of them has been to me. Never did I suppose that—when those kind hands, that had shed nothing but blessings, were lying in the helplessness of death—when that gentle heart, so sorely tried and to the last so full of love, was lying cold in the tomb—a countryman in England could be found to cast the foulest slanders on her grave, and not one in England to raise an effective voice in her defence.

I admit the feebleness of my plea in point of execution. It was written in a state of exhausted health, when no labor of the kind was safe for me, when my hand had not strength to hold the pen, and I was forced to dictate to another.

I have been told that I have no reason to congratulate myself on it as a literary effort. O, my brothers and sisters! is there then nothing in the world to think of but literary efforts? I ask any man, with a heart in his bosom, if he had been obliged to tell a story so cruel, because his mother's grave gave no rest from slander, I ask any woman who had been forced to such a disclosure to free a dead sister's name from grossest insults, whether she would have thought of making this work of bitterness a literary success?

Are the cries of the oppressed, the gasps of the dying, the last prayers of mothers, are any words wrung like drops of blood from the human heart to be judged as literary efforts?

My fellow-countrymen of America, men of the press, I have done you one act of justice. Of all your bitter articles I have read not one. I shall never be troubled in the future time by the remembrance of any unkind word you have said of me, for at this moment I recollect not one. I had such faith in you, such pride in my countrymen, as men with whom, above all others, the cause of woman was safe and sacred, that I was at first astonished and incredulous at what I heard of the course of the American press, and was silent, not merely from the impossibility of being heard, but from grief and shame. But reflection convinces me that you were, in many cases, acting from a misunderstanding of facts, and through a misguided honorable feeling; and I still feel courage, therefore, to ask from you a fair hearing. Now, as I have done you this justice, will you also do me the justice to hear me seriously and candidly?

What interest have you or I, my brother and sister, in this short life of ours, to utter anything but the truth? Is not truth between man and man, and between man and woman the foundation on which all things rest? Have you not, every individual of you, who must hereafter give an account of yourself alone to God, an interest to know the exact truth in this matter, and a duty to perform as respects that truth? Hear me, then, while I tell you the position in which I stood, and what was my course in relation to it.

A shameless attack on my friend's memory had appeared in the Blackwood of July, 1869, branding Lord Byron as the vilest of criminals a recommending the Quiccioli book to Christian public as interesting from the very fact that it was the avowed production of Lord Byron's mistress. No efficient protest was made against this outrage in England, and Littell's Living Age reprint of the Blackwood article and the Harpers, the largest publishing house in America, perhaps in the world, republished the book.

Its statements—with those of the Blackwood, Pall Mall Gazette, and other English periodicals—were being propagated through all the young reading and writing world of America. I was meeting them advertised in dailies, and made up into articles in magazines, and thus the generation of to-day, who had no means of judging Lady Byron but by those fables of her slanderers, were being foully deceived. The friends who knew her personally were a small select circle in England, whom death is every day reducing. They were few in number compared with the great world, and they were silent. I saw these foul slanders crystalizing into history uncontradicted by friends who knew her personally, who, firm in their own knowledge of her virtues, and limited in view, as aristocratic circles generally are, had no idea of the width of the world they were living in, and the exigency of the crisis. When time passed on and no voice was raised, I spoke. I gave at first a simple story, for I knew instinctively that whoever put the first steel point of truth into this dark cloud of slander must wait for the storm to spend itself. I must say the storm exceeded my expectations, and has raged loud and long. But now that there is comparative stillness, I shall proceed, first, to prove what I have just been asserting, and, second, to add to my true story such facts and incidents as I did not think proper at first to state.

INDEPENDENT.

The Lady's Friend.—The February number of this magazine leads off with a fine steel engraving of The First Ball—a scene which will be particularly interesting to young lady readers. Then follows the large sheet of colored fashions. The music for this month is, I Wish that I were Young Again. The literary department has excellent articles in prose or poetry. Published by Deacon & Peterson, 316 Walnut street, Philadelphia. Price, $2,50 a year, which also includes a large steel engraving. The Saturday Evening Post and the Lady's Friend and one engraving $4.

Good Health for January don't fail to give everybody who reads it excellent advice and teaching as to how to enjoy that favorable condition of life, keeping well. The whole secret consists in a little practical common sense. Alex Moore, Boston.

Tilton's Journal of Horticulture for the present month is a beautiful book of 64 pages, filled with instructions concerning the choicest fruits and flowers. For years the publisher has made this monthly a most valuable medium of communication between editor and reader on subjects connected with horticulture; and time only improves its value and popularity. J. C. Tilton & Co., Boston.

For 342 weeks has the INDEPENDENT been presented regularly to its patrons in Massillon and vicinity. Since its commencement the village has become a city, a proof that this paper has been of some use to the place. It would be a good idea for those who are not taking the Independent to do so.

Ballou for February retains the high rank it has long held as a magazine of rare merit. Its varied and miscellaneous contents cannot but interest every reader. Eliot & Co., Boston, Mass.

Peters' Musical Monthly gives its patrons 36 full pages of new music for a mere trifle. Several of the songs are of a highly religious character—a number of instrumental pieces, all new, are in the catalogue. J. L. Peters, N. Y.

Public Ledger Almanac for 1870. To any one who has ever resided in Philadelphia this almanac is a very interesting document. Much of the history of that good city is here given in a comparatively small space, and an examination of its contents will prove instructive even to such as have never seen the place. Mr. Childs, the publisher, is proprietor of the Daily Ledger, the official paper of the city, and has proved himself a benefactor and prosperous man.

If there is all who speak the may be said to take a comfort
is the island of Juan Fernandez.
The favorite tale of nearly every childhood is by most of us remembered through life with great affection, and the scene of its marvelous incidents shines in our regard. It may be true that the proper Robinson Crusoe's Island was not off the cost of Chili at all, but in the mouth of the Orinoco; it may also be true that the continent should be called Columbia and not America; but habit has endeared in both cases the existing usage so that imagination takes precedence of what is or ought to be a fact, that the continent will be America and Juan Fernandez Robinson Crusoe's Island until the end of the chapter.

As most of our readers are aware this classic corner of the earth is in latitude 33 deg. 40 sec. S., about 400 miles off the cost of Chili, and is about the size of Staten Island. It is, however, far more ruggedly picturesque than that beautiful suburb, and boasts one mountain, Yunghe, that towers 4,000 feet above the level of the sea. Around it grow in luxuriant abundance various grains, peaches, figs and other fruits, together with the sandal wood tree and the cork; and among these disport themselves—or did a few years ago—many wild goats, and not a few wild horses. Excellent fish are abundant there, and, with the sweetest of water and a delicious climate, a more inviting spot can hardly be imagined. So thought the early buccaneers, who made it a resort for many a day, and English and American whalers who touched there for supplies. For some years the Chilian Government disturbed the solitude of the place by making it a penal colony; but the convicts rose in revolt, and there was some bloodshed, a village that had been built at Port Cumberland, the harbor, was burned, and the authorities, after ferreting out and putting to death the wretches, who, in completing their work of destruction, had fled to the woods, abandoned the island to the goats and horses Subsequently two or three wandering Chilians found shelter there and eked out a livelihood that the generous soil for the most part easily supplied, by selling to passing ships vegetables and water. It 1849, when the memorable rush was made for the gold fields of California, some of the ships bound thither round Cape Horn touched at Juan Fernandez. They found there besides some half score of Chilians, including women and children, the mate of an American whaler, who, like Selkirk, had left his vessel from choice to dwell upon the island, and who had a family by one of the Chilian woman. This man looked not unlike the pictures of Robinson Crusoe, having garments of goat skins, a long beard, and that expression of profound yet melancholy calm which people who live in solitude are prone to have. He seemed, notwithstanding, to be contented, and spoke not of leaving the place or of any wish to change his condition. A grotto near the shore he pointed out as Robinson Crusoe's Cave, and showed other spots identifying them with other spots spoken of in Defoe's story. He appeared to regard himself as Selkirk's representative, and to take pride in being so accepted.

Twenty years seem to have passed after this without any other or more definite use being made of Juan Fernandez; but last winter it was ceded by the Chilian government to a company of Germans, who are led by one Robert Wehrhan, a Saxon engineer. He and his society have now taken possession of the island and propose to make it their home. They number some sixty or seventy individuals, and and have taken with them cows, and other cattle, swine, fowls, and all kinds of agricultural implements, with boats and fishing apparatus, and tools for the various mechanical trades. It is said that Wehrhen left Germany eleven years ago, and after passing some time in England, was engaged on railways in South America. While there he conceived the idea that he has now carried into effect. This is a repetition on a larger scale of the experiment of Pitcairn's Island, without, of course, the criminal preface that stained the history of the crew of the Bounty. The world will watch the career of this little colony with deeply interested eyes; for, apart from the curiosity and sympathy naturally attracted by the experiment itself, no more engaging spot could have been chosen in which to make it than that which is cherished in so many hearts as Robinson Crusoe's Island.—N. Y. Times.

REMARKABLE RAINS.

There are, sometimes, real showers of very unreal rain. It is stated by an old writer that in Lapland and Finland, about a century ago, mice of a particular kind were known to fall from the sky; and that such an event was sure to be followed by a good year for foxes. A shower of frogs fell near Toulouse in 1804. A prodigious number of black insects, about an inch in length, descended in a snow storm at Parkroff, Russia, in 1827. On one occasion, in Norway, the peasants were astonished at finding a shower of rats pelting down on their heads. Showers of fishes have been numerous. At Stanstead, in Kent, in 1668 a pasture field was found one morning covered with fish, although there is sea nor river, lake nor fishpond Allahabad, in 1839, an Eu soul smart down- afterwards were found had many of in Rosshire, in 1820, of herring fry covered the Islay, in 1830, when a large numb herrings were found strewn over a field after a heavy gusty rain; at Wick, much more recently, when herrings were found in large quantities in a field half a mile from the beach. In all these, and numerous other cases, when a liberal allowance has been made for exaggeration, the remainder can be explained by well understood causes. Stray wind blowing from the sea or river, a waterspout licking up the fish out of the water, a whirlwind sending them hither and thither; all these are intelligible. The rat shower in Norway was an extraordinary one; thousands of rats were taking their annual excursion from a hilly region to the lowlands, when a whirlwind overtook them, whisked them up and deposited them in a field at some distance—doubtless much to the astonishment of such of the rats as came down alive. The so called showers of blood have had their day of terror and marvel, and have disappeared. Not that any one ever saw such a shower actually fall, but red spots have been seen on walls and stones, much to the popular dismay. Swammerdan, the naturalists, told the people of the Hague, two centuries ago, that these red spots were connected with some phenomena of insect life, but they would not believe him, and insisted that the spots were real blood, and were portents of evil to come. Other naturalists have since confirmed the scientific opinion.

THE ANTI POLYGAMY BILLS IN CONGRESS.

There seems to be reason for believing that congress will, during the winter, come fairly to the work of suppressing the last plague spot, by wiping out the existence of polygamy in Utah. Senator Cragin, of New Hampshire, has already introduced in the senate a stringent bill for its suppression, and Mr. McCullom, of Illinois, as early as the 21st of December, came to the assault in the house with a measure which, if adopted and enforced, will drive the last of the two relics of barbarism to the wall.

The bill was referred to the committee on territories, the chair of which is filled by Mr. McCullom, so that we may expect to find it reported back early in the session. The measure makes plurality of wives or concubinage an offence punishable by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars and by imprisonment to the extent of five years. It further provides that no polygamist shall vote or hold any office of trust under the government, or be entitled to the benefit of the homestead bill. In brief, the act if passed, will not only make the polygamist a felon before the law, but will disfranchise him, disqualify him for office and make him an outlaw in the land The bill authorizes the proper marshals, district attorneys and other officials to enforce its provisions, and empowers them to call upon any commander of U. S. troops for military force necessary to sustain them. Experience has shown, however, that as much depends upon the vigorous enforcement of such a law as upon its creation as such, for it cannot be questioned that the act of July 1st, 1862, is practically fatal to polygamy throughout the United States if properly enforced, but it has been neglected and forgotten until it has become a dead letter. Its enforcement without the support of a strong military force has been of course impossible, and the requisite troops seem never to have been at hand and available. It is to be hoped that the bill of Mr. McCullom, if passed, will be sustained by such co-ordinate measures on the part of the war department as will insure its prompt and vigorous application. Polygamy is the last great sore upon our body politic at which foreign nations can point the finger of contempt, and our self respect not to speak of our sense of moral right, should demand its extinction.—Leader.

WONDERS OF THE ROCKY MOUNTAINS.

The proof that nothing is commonplace among the Rocky Moutains is patent at every step. The very pebbles, thick under foot, are all trying to become diamonds or rubies, or chrysolites, and look like petrified hailstones, or bits of water soaked snow. The sand that is cast up as a miniature breastwork by the prairie dog about the entrance to his subterranean house, or heaped in little conical hills by ever-grown ants, is not sand at all, but fine graved, and glitters and sparkles in the sunlight as though it were so much dirty glass, so pear is it crystaline and transparent.

"The Rockies," as everybody ought to be aware, are in nowise ordinary mountains. New measurements have determined some of them to be more than eighteen thousand feet high, and from this point they are distinctly visible for one hundred miles in either direction—two hundred miles of mountains at one sweep of the eye! From the summit of Gray's Peak, I am told, one can see for a distance of two hundred and fifty miles. How is that for "high?" The truth is—to perfect the pun while it is in hand—every man, woman and child in the territory is 'high,' and will be for a month to come or aught I know. Why shouldn't they as I have before asserted, they imbibing the spirit of stances, the pass for very re

tral and highe above them as to make hills in comparison, and is hoo
a nightcap of eternal snow! Nor are these mountains made of prosy, common dirt and granite. Here the dirt is dusted with the powder of precious metals, and specked with brilliants—rubies, garnets, cornelian, moss agates. The granite glitters with silver freighted galena; 'is heavier than lead' with gold; gets 'blue' over its sulphuret of copper, or crystalizes into beautiful prisms of pyrites. It may be said that the mountains are ribbed with iron; cemented with silver, and lead, studded with gold and jewels, toned down with copper and zinc, and never "out of tin."

Even the speckled trout, of which every mountain stream is literally full, are none of your every day New England fish of which poets have sung so much nonsense. They outgrow the latter by half, and do not consider it extravagant to powder their aristocratic heads with gold dust half a dozen times every day in the week not to mention state occasions.

Inanimate nature reacts on animate things; every living being, from the lizard to the human partakes of the spirit and tone of the surrounding elements. The buffalo of the mountain is a bison, the deer is an elk, the lynx is a lesser lion, and the wild cat is a dwarf tiger. I think a leopard, even, would change his spots here, and become a grizzly; the rabbits look like young donkeys, and are appropriately named "jackass rabbits;" while for your ordinary, sneaking, sheepthief crow, they have here the stately raven, as glossy and jet-black as new satin, and as tame and talkative as the cruel one that told poor misanthropical Poe such a doleful and dreadful thing about his loved and lost 'Lenore.' They are almost as common as chickens, do not seem to be afraid of mankind, and I am nightly in dread of a visitation and of hearing these ominous and monotonous repetitions of "never, nevermore."—Cor. Chicago Republican.

Bishop Simpson estimates that it will take three thousand years to convert the world, at the present rate of progress. The bishop does not intend to stay and see the job completed.

HINTS TO GAS BURNERS.

The following advice, given by the Journal of Commerce may be advantageously followed by those who use gas:

1. If your burners are of the common fishtail or bat-wing form, you will observe in the center of the blaze, a dark spot of unconsumed gas. If you see this dark shadow extend to the top of the blaze, then there is more gas rushing through unconsumed than what is really giving light. Turn down the gas until the shadow is half an inch from the circumference of the blaze, and you will have a steadier, better light, and will burn all the gas registered in the meter, but neglect this rule and your meter will register twice as fast under the pressure, and you will pay for gas you do not burn.

2. At a certain hour of night when churches, and halls, and stores put on their gas, the pressure is increased all over that district of the city; watch your burners, and reduce the pressure once more.

3. If you have burners in the chambers and in the kitchen, in your servants' rooms, instead of regulating the pressure at the burners, take the trouble to regulate it at the meter, so as to allow each burner only so much blaze after a certain hour, even if the burners are turned on full blast.

4. Don't think it too much trouble to turn off the gas every night at the meter, as this stops leakages all over the house between the meters and the burners. More gas is paid for which is lost by leakage than by regular consumption.

5. If you have a leak in the house, search for it, and when found, heat the metal with a lamp, and rub red cement (such as is used for fruit cans,) into the crack, If the leak is at a screw joint, the fault is in the thread; notify the gas company or a gas-fitter immediately. It pays to stop leaks.

LIFT A LITTLE.

One day, while walking up the street, I saw, a short distance before me, a little boy carrying a large bucket. It seemed very heavy, for the little fellow was bending and staggering under its weight, yet he went resolutely forward only stopping occasionally to change it from one hand to the other.

He was poorly clad, and as he turned his head, I recognized him as the son of a poor widow, who was obliged to work very hard to earn food and clothing for herself and two little boys. My heart ached for the brave little fellow who was begining so early to bear life's burdens, and I wanted to help him. 'Lift a little,' he seemed to say to the passers by, as he trudged on with his load.

Soon I heard rapid footsteps behind me, and in a moment a bright faced boy, the only son of a professor in one of our colleges passed me. When he reached the little boy who was still bending under his burden, he stretched out his hand, and, taking hold of the bucket bore on his stronger arm the larger share of the burden until he reached his own home.

How I honored the brave boy for his kind act! I knew his own heart was beating a happy measure, for we are never so happy as when doing something to make others happy. And as the widow's son went struggling on I knew his burden seemed to be less heavy, that for a while it had been borne for him. His heart was lighter, too, because another had showed him kindness, and the memory of that little act would be a bright spot to him in many a toiling day. It cost little, the act of thoughtful kindness, but how much happiness it brought.

Constitutional Amendment—YES.

OHIO ALL RIGHT—Fifteenth amendment adopted. On Thursday night last the house of representatives adopted the measure by a majority of two—55 to 57. This makes Ohio all right on the main question of the day—one which has been pending before the people for some time. So far as we have ascertained it was a strict party vote, the Cincinnatti delegation—those who professed to be republicans—in favor of the measure. One or two more states are needed to fill the requirement, making the twenty-eight states, when equal rights as to voting will be the law of the land. Two or three years ago we placed constitutional amendment, YES—at the head of this column and have been keeping it there in the full faith that time would make all things right. The event has proved the correctness of this impression. It is a source of sincere consolation to those who have been battling for the rights of man for nearly forty years to know that so rich a reward is following their endeavors.

RAILROAD SURVEYS.—Much interest is now directed to the idea of extending the Baltimore and Pittsburgh railroad from near the last named place to make as short a connection as possible between that point and Chicago. Engineers employed by people along the proposed routes have been and are now making surveys, as we suppose, in order to find out the most feasible route; and as in all similar cases each party claims peculiar advantages over all competitors. Some weeks ago one corps of engineers commenced at the eastern terminus, passed up the Middle Fork of Little Beaver, along the line of the old Sandy and Beaver Canal, came on westward—as we suppose—to Canton, and the last heard from them they were somewhere in Wayne county, designing to make Wooster a point. That line goes south of us several miles. Another corps of engineers have surveyed, or are surveying a different route, commencing at about the same place as the one before alluded to, and making Salem and Akron prominent points. The people of Alliance too, are bestirring themselves, and are making efforts to get the road past or through their town; and it is probable other parties are at work in a similar manner. Thus far Massillon has been entirely quiet, not having as yet done anything in a public way on the subject. All these efforts made by contending parties are but inducements held out in order to secure the presence of the proposed road, but the principal party in the enterprise, the Baltimore and Pittsburgh road, does nothing until it sees the proper time; and then will select the best route for its purpose, regardless of what conclusions previous engineers and their employers have arrived at. The reasonable probability is, that the party, when it feels prepared to construct the road will chose its own corps of engineers, and they will reject several of those routes and adopt such one as they may decide upon. It is also probable that no one can now foresee their decision. Leaving the question thus open we don't see but that Massillon may stand as good a chance as any of the before named places; for it is certainly nearer being on the line which shall connect Pittsburgh and Toledo than some of the places proposed. Would it not be well to look after this matter a little?

THEIR WORKS DO FOLLOW THEM—That is, the works of drunkards and drunkard makers. It is scarcely possible now a days to take up a daily paper and examine its contents without finding one or more recitals of bloody deeds committed, either directly or indirectly, under the influence of intoxicating liquors. Almost daily in some part or other of the country the telegraph tells of bloody affrays, inspired by the fumes of alcohol; and not in a few cases do we read of two or three and even more perishing from the same cause at one time. Fights, robberies, thefts, arsons and murders follow the course of this river of death as certain as night is followed by day. Yet the work of destruction goes on with impunity; while church and state look on with seeming indifference, as if neither had an interest on the welfare of humanity. They all seem disposed to place the herculean task of ridding the country of this desolating scourge upon special temperance organizations. These organizations ask the aid of church, state and all the social relations among us which have the good of the race at heart, to aid them, and their request is a reasonable and righteous one. The response, as before intimated, is but one of indifference, and this indifference but too often partakes of opposition. It is a question on which every good man and woman must take sides; there is no neutral ground to stand upon and say to the world, We are not responsible. But somebody is responsible. Cain, when asked where was his brother Abel, tried to shift accountability off his shoulders by asking, "Am I my brother's keeper?" So of the priest and Levite who passed by on the other side, when they saw the helpless, half murdered man who had fallen among thieves, and thus tried to evade the claims of a common humanity. But morality and justice held them to strict accountability, not only in the abstract, but in the concrete as well. These scripture teachings as well as the highest claims of morality and the precepts of a thoroughly republican spirit, which professes to have the good of all at heart, imply in terms not to be misunderstood, that this fashionable indifference to the claims of temperance makes us accountable as sinners of no common grade in the guilt of omission to duty. Remember, it is truth as well as poesy when the poet says—

"Our not doing is set down
Among our darkest deeds."

A princely visit has just been made at New York by Sir Arthur, one of the sons of Queen Victoria. He looked over the place for a day or two and then went to the Federal City.

George D. Prentice, one of the well known veteran editors and writers of this country, died at Louisville, on last Saturday, aged 66 years. His place will be difficult to fill, as Mr. P's characteristics as a writer are known everywhere, for he said more sharp, witty expressions than any other man living.

Rochefort, the French editor, for his freedom of expression has been sentenced to six months imprisonment, and the payment of 1,000 francs. That is liberty of the press with a vengeance. France will not always submit to that.

EPISCOPACY AND ROMANISM.

EDITOR INDEPENDENT:—I would not be so uncivil as not to answer a question, proposed by your correspondent. He inquired of Senex, "Does he not know, that leading men of his church are cherishing the fond hope, that the Roman Council may do something toward opening the door for a 'reunion' with the 'mother church.' I confess that I do not know, and am strongly inclined to think that your correspondent does not. I respectfully ask for the NAMES of those "leaders" and a reference to the record of what they have said or done.

I had supposed, that, in closing my last article, my pen would not be resumed on the question of "Romanism;" but as the old charge is made under a new statement, I do not feel at liberty to retire until the charge is substantiated, or silence thereon, by your correspondent, shall make its own refutation.

I am compelled to make the same statement, respecting this second communication of your correspondent, that I did of the first, viz: That its assertions are erroneous. A copy of the letter of the nine Bishops which I have, does not discuss, one way or the other, the question of Romanism. It was written to recommend, what the authors call "rubrical relaxation." That Bishop Potter's reply was at all in the tone, manner, or expression, as charged, will be found to be a mistake, by any one who will take the time to read his letter. Were these documents brief I would place both before your readers. (Pott & Amery, Publishers, N. Y.) The writer in the Christian Witness states his opinion without giving a single fact to support it. He has probably, as other writers do, taken floating items and rumors, as the woof and warp of his article. I will review it when any one will undertake to join issue upon its accuracy. What we want is facts; authority, not the assertion of any one, great or small, but the facts, and such references to them, that we can find them for ourselves.

The statement was made, that one was tried, and reprimanded, for preaching in the pulpit of "a church of another denomination." If so the writer could have referred to the report of the trial and made an extract at least, to substantiate the charge. Such a trial as he reports has not taken place. That is where the whole difficulty lies. If it has not taken place, would it be unwise to say so, and honorably withdraw the charge?

Let us now see what John Wesley wrote when not in his "dotage." (Complete works of John Wesley, with the last correction of the author, published by J. Mason, London.)

Whether what he said was wise or unwise, I pretend not to say. I am after facts only.

In 1746 he writes, "I dare not renounce communion with the Church of England. As a minister, I teach her doctrines, I use her offices. I conform to her rubrics." (Vol. 8. page 444.)

Again, in 1747 he says, "We continually exhort all who attend on our preaching to attend the offices of The Church," (page 488.) In 1755 he says, "We began reading together 'A Gentleman's Reasons for his dissent from the Church of England.' It did not yield us one proof, that it is lawful for us, much less our duty to separate from it." (Vol. 2 p. 328.) In 1758, appeared his "Reasons against a separation from the Church of England." In writing to Miss Bishop in 1778, he says, "These reasons have never yet been answered, and I believe never will be."

Concerning this fact, Charles Wesley writes, "I think myself bound in all duty to add my testimony to my brother's. His twelve reasons, against our ever separating from the Church of England, are mine also. I subscribe to them with all my heart. My affection for the Church of England is as strong as ever, and I clearly see my calling which is to live and die in her communion. This therefore I am determined to do. The Lord being my my Helper." (Vol 13. p. 109.) John Wesley writes, year by year, making the same declarations as before quoted, to the year 1787. In 1768 he says, "I advise all, over whom I have any influence steadily to keep to the Church of England." (Vol. 3. p. 337.)

In 1778, "The original Methodists were all of the Church of England, and the more awakened they were, the more zealously they adhered to it in every point, both of doctrine and discipline." (Vol. 13 p. 134.) His correspondence from 1778 to 1789 is of the same import, see vols 12 and 13. In 1789, John Wesley attended, for the last time, a conference in Ireland, and says, "I never saw such a number of preachers before, so unanimous in all points, particularly as to leaving the Church, which none of them had the least thought of." (Vol. 4 p. 464.) The same year, he attended for the last time, a conference in England, and says, "The case of separation from The Church was largely considered, and we were all unanimous against it." (Vol. 4 p. 45.) In 1780 he remarks, "I have been uniform both in doctrine and discipline for above these fifty years." Not to cite more, from his earlier writings, or later, or his prayer on his death bed in 1791, it must be apparent, what were his opinions of The Church (with all its faults) in which he lived, worked and died. I respectfully submit the question, if my first quotation from John Wesley, made in a former communication, did him any injustice; further, if the record of his life furnishes any evidence, that he ever organized a new church, of any kind, whatever. SENEX.

PARIS, Jan. 21—Evening.

The strike of the operators at La Creuzot still continues, and is making a profound sensation throughout the country on account of the large number of workmen concerned in it.

It is feared by the government that the example the strikers have set will be followed elsewhere; and this is not all. It was supposed that the strike was brought about by revolutionary agents, and this idea is strengthened from the fact that their numbers are increasing and their demands becoming more and more unreasonable. La Creuzot is one of the greatest iron manufacturing towns in Europe, and this defection of the workmen is entailing heavy losses, which increase every day.

The primary cause of the strike was a change in the general direction of affairs there, to which the workmen objected. They petitioned for the reinstatement of the old direction, which was refused.

The Most Reverend Archbishop Dechamps, of Mecklin, who is at the head of the infallibility party in the Ecumenical council, has been appointed Primate of Belgium.

Their action has caused much excitement.

We, the Druggists of Massillon, call the attention of our customers to the letters published below of the wonderful efficacy of Dr Roback's Stomach Bitters, Dr. Roback's Scandinavian Blood Purifier, and Dr. Roback's Scandinavian Blood Pills. We have been selling these medicines long enough to know that they are all they are recommended to be, and that the certificates of cures published are true.
JOS. WATSON, EDWARD KACHLER
PLEASANT HILL, MISS., April 9, 1866.

DR. C. W. ROBACK,
Dear Sir:—Last fall my wife had the Liver Complaint so bad she was able to sit up but a few minutes at a time. I had a physician doctoring her for some time, but the medicine he gave her seemed to do her but little or no good. I was advised to get her a bottle of your Bitters, and let her try them, and see if they would help her. So I thought if one bottle would be good two would be better, and I got her two bottles, and when she had taken the last bottle she could do most of her house work. I got her one more which entirely cured her, and she looks the best I have seen her for four years. We recommended them to several of our neighbors who have used them with great success.

In the tables published heretofore the number of deaths for each month is given, and we find that the aggregate for 1867 by months is 51, while by ages, as given above, it is 48. These reports include only the Massillon cemetery. There are two Catholic cemeteries, reports from neither of which are included. We hope some person having the correct figures will furnish them hereafter.

George Zeilley has been among us for a few days; the same genial George, with the same beaming face as in the days when he was one of us. Rumor says he is coming again, to remain in Massillon, and to be "mine host" of the Tremont house. We hope so.

The Pittsburgh conference of the M. E. church is to be held at Greensburg, Pa., commencing about the middle of March. Bro. Lynch, who has supplied this station for three successive years, (and made hosts of friends in the meantime), will certainly be changed to some other field of labor; for three years is as long as a preacher can remain at one place, according to the present polity of that church.

Bro. Pittenger, who is acknowledged by all acquainted with him to be a man of superior ability, supplied this station one year some five years since, and made a very large circle of fast friends. We are informed that he is to be transferred to some conference in New Jersey, and take up his residence at Vineland in that state. While at Cadiz and Mt. Union Bro. P. secured the esteem of all with whom he came in contact; and it is with regret that Pittsburgh conference loses the services of so efficient and able a young minister.

If you buy a cheap instrument of music it will cost you more than it is worth to keep it in repair. You will save money in the end by letting Fassett select for you.

An altercation took place a few days ago at Fulton, between two men, which resulted in the use of a knife in the hands of one of the parties. One stabbed or cut the other man in several places so that death followed the wounds thus inflicted. Whether whisky had anything to do with this transactian or not we have not ascertained—but it is just like the doings of its inspirations.

We have heard it remarked that we can't make a living by selling at such prices as we are selling goods, but we are not uneasy about that; we are perfectly willing to give our customers a large share of the profits by their paying the cash at the time of purchase. We want our customers and the public to bear in mind that London's Cheap Cash Store is the place to buy their goods.

MR. BOWMAN, on his brief visit home was welcomed by his numerous friends, and appears in good health and excellent spirits. He entertains the idea that the session will be a comparatively brief one, and not copy the example of its illustrious predecessors. Thus far the legislature has not permitted business to drive it, but rather drives business. That is as it should be.

A few days of last week we had pleasant weather, but Monday it commenced snowing a while, when the usual rain supervened, and left sleighing out in the—wet.

The Dance at the American House last evening was a successful and happy occasion. There were fair women and brave men, and all went merry as a marriage bell until the small hours of morning.

THIEVING.—Complaint is made by a numbes of our citizens that chicken thieves are about, making quite free with people's hens and roosters. A good many disappeared from the roosts last week, especially during nights. Somebody, also, made so bold as to go through the Union Hotel, across the canal, one day or night last week, and abstracted a quantity of clothing belonging to the boarders. An end will come to such misdeeds.

Russell & Co. paid out a large sum of money on last Saturday to their employees —which, of course, amounted to thousands of dollars. It is their design, hereafter, to pay off their men every month.

Quite a number of the Literary Association met at the mayor's office on last Friday evening, but some came in so late and in such a scattering way, and soon leaving that at no time was there a quorum. So nothing was done. Let it be understood that on next Friday evening all are requested to be present, in good season—7 o'clock—so as to proceed promptly and earnestly to business. Possibly all may not be able to be present, but certainly enough can be there to give interest and zest to the proceedings. There is still a lingering disposition to bring up the Bible question, a subject which elicits a deep interest on all sides. Remember, Friday evening, Jan. 28, at 7 o'clock, at the mayor's office

Protracted meetings are continued nightly at the Methodist and Presbyterian churches, where large numbers of people attend, and manifest an unusual interest in the religious exercises. Rumors are current that the proprietors of the coal mines in this vicinity are about to lower the wages of their working men. If they do this, it is because they think they have reasons for it, but if the price of labor is to come down, should not coal be cheaper?

Flannels of all descriptions are being sold at very low rates at Humberger & Son's.

Palmers Organs at Fassett's.

Some weeks ago Foster & Co., of Minerva., who have been in success-ful trading business in that place for many years, in consequence of great changes in the price of pork and wool in which they heavily invested, were forced, or perhaps rather chose, to make an honorable assignment in behalf of their creditors. The last number of the Commercial of that place, we are pleased to note, states that the generous creditors of Foster & Co. have placed the firm again in their business position, and are disposed to help them through with the mishaps which have befallen them. This comes of the confidence which everybody reposes in the honesty and integrity of these business men.

Somebody has been trying to be funny at the expense of our people, in the Pittsburgh papers, in regard to a few little blunders made at the opening of the opera house. The probability is that some mistakes were made, but are those who are so exquisitely facetious right certain they could have done better under similar circumstances? Such errors are not without precedent, even in older cities, and where theater going people claim to know all about what is requisite on such occasions. But we shall let these laughing people be just as funny as they can—their efforts only aid to bring into notice one of the finest opera houses in this region of country.

MR. ESTEP, who was so unfortunate last summer as to have one of his legs badly broken, and has since been under the necessity of using a cane and crutch, we are pleased to see, is now able to do without these aids to locomotion.

The Kent Bulletin has been pronounced dead by several of our neighbors within the last few weeks, but there must be some mistake about it, for the B., or a physical ghost of its name visits us weekly filled up with selected and lively original locals. True, it did talk of hari-kari a few weeks since, but has survived that emergency thus far.

The ornamentations on the new church (St. Paul's) are the theme of general remark, as being equal to, if not a little surpassing anything of the kind in the city—according to the idea of many people who have taken a look at it. The building certainly is a great addition to the appearance of that portion of the city, and when fully finished will be a source of satisfaction to the congregation worshiping in it.

An attempt to give us a supply of snow commenced Tuesday morning, but the result proved a failure.

Kid gloves $1,25 per pair at Humberger & Son's.

A MAN named Nolan was somewhat severely injured by the kick of a horse on last Sunday, having an arm and one of his ribs broken. It happened in the stable of Mr. Bayliss, and was entirely accidental.

MR. HENRY WALSER, one of the best and most successful carriage builders, was in town the other day. He and Mr. Grimmasy, of Salem, also a carriage maker, are desirous of locating here and starting a shop for the purpose of carrying on the business. It is a good opening for sach an establishment, and Massillon and vicinity will afford a fair market for such manufacturers. One difficulty attending the effort will be to secure a suitable location, as such places are scarce in this vicinity. It will be well worth while to aid Mr. W. as much as possible in this direction, as he has a wide and well established fame for making excellent work in this branch of manufacture.

100 pairs of home made woolen socks at Humberger & Son's.

Two or three weeks ago one of the shops at Canton discharged some fifty or more men and reduced the hours of labor for those who remained. They also, it is said, reduced wages some 15 or 20 per cent. It is possible that our shops have done so, or soon will reduce the wages of the men here. But, if possible, before working men's labor is cut down there should be a reduction in the prices of provisions, for some of the staple articles of living are said to be out of proportion as to price. Dry goods have generally come down to ante-war prices, so that clothing can be had on somewhat reasonable terms. Flour, also, is within reach of all as to price, but buyers complain that meats are largely out of proportion. But it will not be long until this transition state of prices will adjust itself, and while unequally balanced it will be at somebody's expense.

S. C. BOWMAN, representative to the legislature, made his home a brief visit, returning here on last Saturday, and leaving on Tuesday morning.

EARTH CLOSETS.—This is a new and very useful and convenient article, which may be put to use by any family. By his advertisement elsewhere it will be seen that Capt. J. Hoskin, of this place is general agent for these essential articles in this part of the country. Further particulars concerning these earth closets will appear in our next.

Last Saturday afternoon the workmen were successful in placing the spire on which are a double cross, and above it a spherical ornament, on the steeple of St. Paul's church, which reaches an elevation of nearly 200 ft. The man who did the perilous work found it becoming dark in the evening, and became uneasy about reaching terrafirma in safety, but he came down all right.

In one respect our office is a favored one in regard to position, as from its windows we can look upon no less than five church steeples, all pointing heavenward; and we can hear some half dozen bells on Sunday agitating the air with their peals and their appeals to sinners to gather into the folds of the saints, who regularly go there to worship at the various altars.

Percy Pease, assistant assessor of this division, informs us that he is ordered to commence work immediately on the annual assessment of incomes for 1869, and licenses for 1870.

As considerable fixing up is to be done on the new railroad before it is put to use, it is supposed that trains will not commence running regularly before the first of March. It is not long till that time, as the second month has but 28 days. And it is better to begin right and with safety than be in too great a hurry, and run the risk of accidents and consequent expense.

A small amount of boating continues to be done on the canal, for although ice covers it occasionally it don't remain long.

Messrs. Charles London and John Higginbotham have the brick work of the West Massillon Schoolhouse. As soon as the weather is suitable we presume they will commence operations.

Messrs D. W. Huntsman and Charles Killinger, it is said, are about to put up residences the coming spring on the site where the old building stood which was burned down last February. Mr. Peirce is also about to put up a dwelling on the east side of his lot in the spring. These are but a few of many other new residences going up.

MR. FORREST, the distinguished actor, is about to visit Canton in a few days, where he will take a leading part in his profession on the stage, for two or three nights. Could he not be brought here for one or two evenings?

Mrs. S. A. ALLEN

MRS. ALLEN'S

Hair Restorer & Zylobalsamum

Are so uniformly grateful and beneficial, that they are with justice called the natural strengtheners of the human hair. They are two entirely separate and distinct preparations, not to be used together at one time.

Mrs. Allen's Hair Restorer

Never fails to satisfy the most refined and cultivated. A guarantee goes with every bottle, that it will quickly restore gray or white hair to its original youthful beauty, gloss and color; after its use a few times the hair will grow thicker and stronger. It will stop its falling and induce a healthy and luxuriant growth. It is an exquisite hair dressing, agreeable, harmless and healthy. Entirely different from most other preparations for the hair, its composition and ingredients are nourishing, giving life and vigor to the Roots.

Mrs. Allen's Zylobalsamum

This exquisite preparation is free from any sediment, and is a toilet treasure. The urgent want of a simple Hair Dressing, for the youth of both sexes, first induced the manufacture of the Zylobalsamum, and the sale of it is perfectly immense, not only in this country, but in Europe.

EXTRACTS FROM A FEW LETTERS.

"Your Zylobalsamum is used by every member, young and old, of our family, and we consider it invaluable. Should any gray hairs appear, we shall try your Hair Restorer, which we hear very highly spoken of."

"Father and mother use your Hair Restorer, and are delighted with it. It soon restored their gray locks to their youthful color, but daughters and son still find in the Zylobalsamum all their hair requires."

From the Principal of one of our large Female Seminaries: "Your Zylobalsamum has been used for many years by myself and family, and is the favorite among our young ladies."

Sold by all Druggists, Wholesale Depot, S. R. VAN DUZER & CO., 35 Barclay St. and 40 Park Place, New-York.

HEALTH! BEAUTY!!

Strong, Pure and Rich Blood—Increase of Flesh and Weight—Clear Skin and Beautiful Complexion, SECURED to ALL.

RADWAY'S

Sarsaparillian Resolvent

HAS MADE THE MOST ASTONISHING CURES. SO QUICK, SO RAPID ARE THE CHANGES. THE BODY UNDERGOES UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF THIS TRULY WONDERFUL MEDICINE THAT

Every Day an Increase in Flesh and Weight is Seen and Felt.

Scrofula, Consumption, Syphilis, uncured and badly treated Venereal, in its many forms, Glandular disease, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth, Tumors, Nodes in the Glands, and other parts of the system. Sore Eyes. Strumous discharges from the Ears. Eruptive diseases of the Eyes, Nose Mouth, and the worst forms of Skin disease. Eruptions, Fever Sores, Scald Head, Ring Worm, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas. Acne, Black Spots, Worms in the Flesh, Tumors, Cancers in the Womb, and all weakening and painful discharges. Night Sweats, loss of Sperm and all waste of the life principle, are within the curative range of Radway's Sarsaparillian Resolvent, and a few days use will prove to any person using it for either of these forms of disease, its potent power to cure them.

Not only does the Sarsaparillian Resolvent excel all known remedial agents, in the cure of Chronic, Scrofulous Constitutional, Skin and Syphilitic diseases but it is the only positive remedy for Kidney, Bladder Urinary, and Womb diseases, Gravel, Diabetes Dropsy, Stoppage of Water, Incontinence of Urine, Bright's disease. Albuminuria, and in all cases where there are Brick dust deposits, or the water is thick, cloudy, mixed with substances like the white of an egg, or threads like white silk, or there is a morbid dark, bilious appearance, and white bone dust deposits, and where there is a pricking, burning sensation when passing water, and pain in the Small of the Back, and along the Loins. In all these conditions Radway's Sarsaparillian Resolvent aided by the application of Radway's Ready Relief to the Spine and Small of the Back, and the Bowels regulated with one or two of Radway's Regulating Pills per day, will soon make a complete cure. In a few days, the patient will be enabled to hold and discharge his water naturally without pain, and the Urine will be restored to its natural clear, and amber or sherry color.

THE WASTES OF THE BODY are supplied with new, healthy, and vigorous blood, that furnishes sound structure. Hence all suffering from WEAKENING DISCHARGES, either MALE or FEMALE, of the Womb, Uterus, or other organs, whether Leucorrhœa, Sperm, or Eruptive discharges, of every kind, or from violence of "Self-abuse," from the Genital Glands, or Venereal discharges, or Ulcers, or sores, through the reparative process of RADWAY'S SARSAPARILLIAN, are arrested, and the ruptured organs healed

THE TRUE THEORY OF CURE.

RADWAY'S SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT supplies the system, through the blood, urine, sweat, and structure-making constituents with Tissue making, Flesh making, Heat or Caloric and Fat making elements. All of constituents are nourishing, purifying, and strengthening. It Repairs, Heals, Resolves, and drives out of the body the products of Decay and Corruption. CONSUMPTION, WHITE SWELLING, DROPSY, SYPHILIS, CANCERS, TUMORS, &c., are all of a scrofulous diathesis, and as such, are within the curative range of the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT!

1. That Scrofula, by whatever name designated, is the result of deposits from the blood, induced or caused by Chronic inflamation. That those deposits take place when the blood is poor, weak, watery, and incapable of holding in solution its proper constituents, or from the presence of some virus or poison in the blood, as Mercury, Calomel, Corrosive Sublimate, which is the Corrosive Chloride of Mercury or other agents, given in medicines and which enter largely in the common advertised Sarsaparillas, NOT ABSORBED OR CHANGED FROM THEIR NATURAL CONDITION.

2. That unless the repairs or nutriments are greater than the wastes, that decomposition and decay will supervene, and the powers of life become exhausted.

3. That the dying body cannot be sustained on any treatment of medication that exhausts the system, or fails to nourish the blood, the only medium through which the vital forces are preserved, and on which the growth of the body depends.

4. That Radway's Sarsaparillian Resolvent supplies a want never before possessed or known to be said in medicine, that this new found principle in Chemical science, which has been brought to such a perfect system of cure is exhibited as follows:

1. Its great power in assimilating the food in its first stage of distillation in the process of digestion, as chyme and chyle with the nourishing elements of blood, seperating from these liquids refuse and inert qualities before they are taken up by the lacteals and are formed into blood. Here we see that by its wonderful power it charges the system with the very essence of principle that forms the vital powers of the body, and its chemical action on the blood in its primitive and complete condition, expurgates every atom of refuse material or element, out of which the virus of disease is formed.

2. That, the blood thus prepared, and supplied with these nourishing properties becomes strong, rich and healthy, and holds in solution its proper constituents through the Sarsaparillian Resolvent, and repairs the wastes of the body with sound and healthy structures. Such is the wonderful power the Sarsaparillian Resolvent exerts on the blood and juices of the system, that no virulent humors or poisons will exist by which deposits are made.

3. The rapidity which the Sarsaparillian enters the circulation, and communicates its curative powers through the Blood, Sweat, Urine, and other fluids, secures the constituent secretions of each respective organ, establishing functional harmony throughout the system; through its action and power over the Secretions, the Liver secretes its natural or proper allotment of bi e; the Skin sweat; the Kidneys urea; and the Lungs carbon; so that this wonderful medicine not only establishes health in the sick body, but preserves the system in health.

As we have shown the principle on which disease is formed, as well as the only sensible theory of cure, we claim that the range of cure of the Sarsaparillian Resolvent is unlimited, and that every disease that is of a Caronic, Scrofulous or Organic Diathesis, is, properly within its special range.

in this Medicine consists in the selection of ingredients containing curative and nourishing properties that supply the blood of general system with such constituents which, in a condition of disease and depravity, it is deficient of, together with the combination of the several ingredients that form the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT.

If the constituent of Oxygen was exhausted from the atmospheric air, life would become extinct. So, when the blood becomes exhausted of its vital constituents, it deposits its tubercles and diseased humors in the body, and the elements of decay and decomposition supervene.

Radway's Sarsaparillian Resolvent is to the blood and general system what OXYGEN is to the atmospheric air; it supplies the life principle, and enables the blood to hold in solution all its natural constituents.

DAILY CHANGES

take place, for as the Sarsaparillian increases the strength and purity of the blood, all deposits are diminished, and where there are tubercles formed in the lungs, the further deposits are arrested, and those that are established or forming dislodged, expelled, exhausted, or the portion of the diseased lung cicatrised, and the consumptive, scrofulous subject receives good, if not sound, health.

BLIND-LADY CURED.

Gravel, Dyspepsia, Sore Legs, Bleeding from the Lungs, Cured.

Mr. GEORGE MORTIMER, a commercial traveller, in Canada West, writes us, under date of April 17, 1869, from Woodstock:

"The SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT is in great demand, and working wonders. Mr. HOAG, of Stratfordville, merchant, told me of a case where a woman WAS BLIND, but, by the use of the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT, can now see to read She would give a certificate, but does not wish to be bothered with people writing. Hundreds call to see her. The cure is regarded as wonderful.

Errors of Youth.

A gentleman who suffered for years from Nervous Debility, Premature Decay, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will, for the sake of suffering humanity send free to all who need it, the recipe and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, John B. Ogden, 42 Cedar street, N. Y. 307 1y

Let Common Sense Decide.

What is the rational mode of procedure in cases of general debility and nervous prostration? Does not reason tell us that judicious stimulation is required. To resort to violent purgation in such a case is as absurd as it would be to bleed a starving man. Yet it is done every day! Yes, this stupid and unphilosophical practice is continued in the teeth of the great fact that physical weakness, with all the nervous disturbances that accompany it, is more certainly and rapidly relieved by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters than by any other medicine at present known. It is true that general debility is often attended with torpidity or irregularity of the bowels, and that this symptom must not be overlooked. But while the discharge of the waste matter of the system is expediated or regulated, its vigor must be recruited. The Bitters do both. They combine aperient and anti-bilious properties, with extraordinary tonic power. Even while removing obstructions from the bowels, they tone and invigorate those organs. Through the stomache, upon which the great vegetable specific acts directly, it gives a healthy and permanent impetus to every enfeebled function. Digestion is facilitated, the faltering circulation regulated, the blood reinforced with a new accession of the alimentary principle, the nerves braced, and all the dormant powers of the system roused into healthy action; not spasmodically, as would be the case if a mere stimulant were administered, but for a continuance. It is in this way that such extraordinary changes are wrought in the condition of the feeble, emanciated and nervous invalids by the use of this wonderful corrective, alterative and tonic. Let common sense decide between such a preparation and a prostrating cathartic supplimented by a poisonous a stringent like strychnine or quinia.

C. F. GALTON'S DYSPEPSIA REMEDY.

In offering this remedy to the public, we feel confident that every statement we make in regard to its curative properties will be fully realized by all who avail themselves of it. The prescription has been used in this city nearly ten years, and has never failed to effect a permanent cure whenever used in accordance with the directions, and the patient has had sufficient strength of mind to abstain from rich and indigestible food for a short time. In case of Heartburn, Waterbrash, Constipation, and Nervous Headache, arising from imperfect digestion, and all ailments which are produced from an abuse of that important organ, the stomach, it will afford permanent relief.

As an evidence that our statements can be fully relied upon, we refer the reader to the certificates below:

"For a number of years I was greatly afflicted with Dyspepsia, and although my stomach craved food, it would immediately reject it, should I eat anything, no matter how small the quantity. I was frequently compelled to leave the table without being able to take any nourishment. In a short time I became very much reduced in flesh, and was so weak that I was unable and unfit to attend to my business. My mind was in no better condition than my body, as I was continually oppressed with lassitude and depression of spirits. I tried all the patent medicines and prescriptions that I heard of, and some of those advertised as temporary relief, but in a short time I relapsed into my former condition.

"While suffering in this manner I heard of C. F. Galton's Dyspepsia Remedy, and concluded to try it. I had taken it but a short time when I began to feel relief, and continuing to take it, I soon could partake of my meals without any suffering, be feeling either while at the table or afterwards, and gained flesh rapidly. It is now nearly ten years since, and I have continued free from anything like a return of the Dyspepsia—I can therefore recommend it to any one suffering in like manner.

"Respectfully yours, ANDREW J. NICHOLSON.
"PITTSBURGH, March 20, 1869."

"This is to certify, that during the early part of the summer of 1868 my wife was much troubled with Dyspepsia. She had a severe pain in her side, her appetite was variable, and she became quite sallow. After having used two bottles of C. F. Galton's Dyspepsia Remedy, her appetite became good, she was relieved from the severe pain in her side, and her complexion became good again, all of which I attribute to the use of C. F. Galton's Dyspepsia Remedy, and I have recommended it to all my friends and acquaintances. All that I can do to make its wonderful properties known, you can rest assured will be done JAMES A. SMITH.
"PITTSBURGH, PA."

If you are suffering do not hesitate to buy a bottle of C. F. Galton's Dyspepsia Remedy, and avail yourself of its curative properties.

A HUMBUG.

How often we hear this expression from persons reading advertisements of patent medicines, and in nine cases out of ten they are right. It is over 22 years since I introduced Dr Tobias Venetian Liniment, to the public. I had no money to advertise it, so I left it for sale with a few druggist and storekeepers through a small section of the country, many taking it with great reluctance; but I told them to let any one have it, and, if it did not do all I stated in my pamphlet, no one need pay for it. In some stores two or three bottles were taken on trial by persons present. I was, by many, thought crazy, and that would be the last they would see of me. But I knew my medicine was no humbug. In about two months I began to receive orders for more liniment, some calling it my valuable liniment, who had refused to sign a receipt when I left it at their store. Now my sales are millions of bottles yearly, and all for cash. I warrant it superior to any other medicine for the cure of croup, diarrhœa, colic, vomiting, spasms, and sea-sickness, as an internal remedy. It is perfectly harmless to take internally—see each accompanying each bottle—and externally for chronic rheumatism, headache, mumps, frosted feet, bruises, sprains old sores, swellings, sore throats, &c. Price 50 cts. Sold by the druggists, Depot 10 Park Place, N. Y.

THE TERRIBLE DRINK.

Oh, the drink, the terrible drink,
Making each city and town a sink
Of misery dire, and fearful to tell
Of the numberless victims sent to hell.
Swearing,
Killing,
Crimes pe[illegible],
The terrible drink makes night so black,
And the curse of youth and decrepid age,
Adding to thirst instead of assuage;
Continual drink, the drunkards crave,
Till it drags them down to an early grave.

Oh, the drink, the horrible drink!
See the child from its father shrink
As he staggers home from his night's debauch,
His soul on fire from the demon's torch.
Blindly,
Wildly,
Stumbling along,
Crazed with drink, intent on wrong;
And even the dogs, with a bark and a bound,
Growl at the man as he gropes around,
This is the picture, deny it who can,
Of the downward steps of a fallen man.

Once he was free from the vice, but he fell—
Fell, like the angels, from heaven to hell—
Fell, to be mocked at, scoffed at, and beat,
Mingling with filth in the horrible street.
Pleading,
Cursing,
Dreading the worst,
Drinking still deeper yet deeper his thirst,
Till he sickens and falls, degraded and low,
And death is preferred to this abyss of woe!
Merciful God! in thy goodness save
Taine own image from a drunkard's grave

This infallible remedy does not, like the poisonous irritating snuffs and strong caustic solutions with which the people have long been humbugged, simply palliate for a short time, or drive the disease to the lungs, as there is danger of doing in the use of such nostrums, but it produces perfect and permanent cures of the worst cases of chronic catarrh, as thousands can testify. Cold in the head is cured with a few applications. Catarrhal headache is relieved and cured as if by magic. It removes offensive breath, loss or impairment of the sense of taste, smell, or hearing, watering or weak eyes, and impaired memory, when caused by the violence of catarrh, as they all frequently are. We offer $500 for a case of catarrh that we cannot cure.
For sale by most Druggists everywhere. Price 50 cents.
Ask your druggists for the remedy, but if he has not got it on sale, don't be put off by accepting any miserable worse than worthless substitute, but enclose 60 cents to me, and the remedy will be sent to you postpaid. Four packages $2, or one doz. for $5 Address the proprietor, R. V. PIERCE, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y. 333-3m
